OFFICERS TO WEAR EVENING DRESS UNIFORM

All commissioned officers of the Marine Corps will be required to provide themselves with the evening dress uniform by the first of next November, according to a circular letter of the Major General Commandant addressed to all officers of the Corps.

The uniform to be known hereafter as evening dress is, with a few minor exceptions, identical with that formerly known as Mess Dress. It consists of a round shell jacket of dark blue cloth lined with scarlet, extending to the points of the hip bones on the sides and curving slightly from these points to the front and center of the back, with sixteen Marine Corps gilt buttons at the front with the corresponding button-holes blind as the jacket is worn unbuttoned, with the collar decorated with gold lace, with decorations at the cuffs of gold braid, with gold shoulder knots with the corps device and with insignia of rank embroidered upon a scarlet back ground; dress trousers of dark blue doe-skin with stripes of gold braid down the center seam of either leg; dress waistcoat with a roll collar and four Marine Corps gilt buttons; plain white stiff bosom shirt with straight standing collar and black bow tie; high black shoes of polished or patent leather; cloak when required; and dress cap.

According to officers who were with the fleet when it made its memorable cruise around the world, this uniform which was then worn as the mess dress, excited more favorable comment than any other uniform worn by American forces. It was frequently described as the most beautiful uniform in use in any country.

TARGET PRACTICE NEWS

During March one thousand two hundred and forty-four officers and men of the Marine Corps fired the Army course for qualification. Of these 1,045 qualified as marksman or better. Over seventeen per cent of those qualifying qualified as expert riflemen.

During the last target year ninety per cent of the entire strength of the Marine Corps fired for qualification. With the hope that this record may be exceeded this year Commanding Officers are making every effort to have every man of their commands fire for record.

Shooting members of the U. S. International Match team will be selected in an open competition to be held at the Marine Corps Rifle Range at Quantico, Va., during the period from August 9 to August 12, 1922. Candidates for places on this team will be drawn from Army, Navy, Marine Corps, National Guard and Civilian marksmen.

The tryouts will be under the supervision of Lt. Colonel O. S. Snyder, U. S. A., Major W. W. Buckley, U. S. M. C., and Major Frank Maloney, O. R. C. The actual conduct of the range will be in charge of the Marine Officers on duty at Quantico.

The International Match this year will be held at Milan, Italy. The course for tryouts will be 30 shots standing, 20 shots kneeling, and ten shots prone, at three hundred yards. This course will be fired three times, using the International Target, and the contestants having the highest total out of the entire 180 shots will be selected.

MARINE DETACHMENTS REMOVED

The Marine Detachments have been removed from the U. S. S. Delaware and the U. S. S. North Dakota. This was done in order to make room aboard these vessels for the midshipmen who will make their annual cruise this year on these two ships and the U. S. S. Olympia.

The duties of the Marines have been taken over by a sea-man guard, pending the arrival of the midshipmen, who will perform some of the duties usually performed by Marines.

SWITZERLAND LEADS IN TARGET PRACTICE

In spite of the fact that the Swiss team was defeated by the American entry in the International Matches held last year at Lyons, Switzerland, leads every country in the world in the total amount of rifle practice held during the year.

According to statistics published in the London Times, Switzerland expended last year a total of 36 million rounds of rifle ammunition in target practice of various kinds. As the population of Switzerland is only four million these figures show an expenditure of nine rounds for every man, woman, and child in the country.

While accurate figures are not available it is estimated that during the same period the United States used about three hundred million rounds. These figures are based on the expenditures of the various services and the organized civilian clubs. It is certain that the total amount used in rifle practice can not exceed four hundred million. As there are well over a hundred million people in the United States, not counting Alaska or island possessions, it is apparent at once that the per capita expenditure is not quite half of that of the Swiss Republic.

BITS OF MUD FROM QUANTICO

By RUSS

Monday evening the Quantico Marines and their friends had the extreme pleasure of hearing Mr. Gilbert Wilson, former Quantico song-leader, sing several selections. Men who were in Quantico during the war will recall the frequent trips we took to the colosseum to sing under the leadership of Mr. Wilson. He taught the Marines to sing.

Mr. Wilson sang "The Toreador Song," from Carmen; "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride," "Treat Me Nice," a negro dialect song, and "Mandalay."

The ex-song-leader is now following the musical profession, making his headquarters in Chicago, where he is also connected with a Marine Legion Post. It was with great pleasure that we welcomed Mr. Wilson and we hope that he may again make a trip to this part of the country.

The barracks detachment dance was by far the most successful that has been held in Quantico this season. The Post gymnasium was very appropriately decorated with evergreens, streamers and pennants. Music was furnished by two orchestras, Leveque's Jazz Orchestra and the Post Orchestra. Fully three hundred visitors were present.

The main bout which was scheduled for May 3 was cancelled as Sgt. Haley was discharged from the Marine service on the second. However, a very good match was substituted in its place. Sgt. Reck and Cpl. Schoblock fought a four-round exhibition bout which convinced every man in the Post that we have two wonderful fighters to represent us against the Third

Army Corps. The full list of boxers who will represent the Marines has not been completed.

Tryouts for the Annapolis match were held at the Rifle Range and a team has been selected which will represent the U. S. Marines. High scores were made throughout the preliminary tests and a very select outfit has been chosen. The following men will uphold the shooting standards of the Marines at the Annapolis match: Gy. Sgt. Wiggs, Cpl. Haubensak, Gy. Sgt. Meek, Sgt. Stake, Pvt. Sutphen, Pvt. Alexander, Pvt. Gamble, Sgt. Luyster, Pvt. White, Sgt. Stanfield, Pvt. Johnson, Pvt. Miller, and Pvt. Roberts.

Tryouts are also being held for the divisional match which will be held in the near future. The scores made on the range this year have been exceptionally high and the success of the two teams is sure if they continue to shoot as they have in practice.

Mayor Broening of Baltimore and a party of distinguished guests visited the post on Thursday, May 11. The party inspected the camp and reviewed the troops.

INSTITUTE GRADUATES

Six enlisted men and one former enlisted man of the Marine Corps have been added to the list of graduates of the Marine Corps Institute during the past week.

These men upon the completion of their courses were awarded diplomas by the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pa., and were also the recipients of congratulatory letters from Major General John A. Lejeune, Commandant of the Marine Corps.

In conformance with the Marine Corps Institute's policy of allowing men to complete courses after their discharge, when the course was almost completed, Mr. George N. Lilygren of 1344 Potomac avenue S. E., Washington, D. C., was awarded a diploma for completing the Machine Shops Practice Course.

The following is a list of the enlisted men awarded diplomas, with their next of kin, home address, and the course completed.

Drum Major Hurshel D. Pryor, Mrs. Lillian Pryor, wife, 727 Fourth street S. E., Washington, D. C., Complete Automobile Course.

Sergeant Romeo Nardone, Mrs. Angelina Nardone, mother, 522 Central avenue, Newark, N. J., Spanish Course.

Corporal Milton F. McElroy, Mrs. Louise McElroy, mother, 1131 Dewey Avenue, Beloit, Wis., Complete Plumbing and Heating Court.

Private (First Class) Howard G. Ewing, Mr. Kellie Ewing, father, R. F. D. C., Lafayette, Ind., Complete Automobile Course.

Private (First Class) Walter H. Lindquist, Mrs. Emma Lindquist, mother, Mesick, Mich., Complete Automobile Course.

Private (First Class) John C. Williges, Mrs. Katharine Williges, mother, 61 Hudson street, Yonkers, New York, Salesmanship Course.

Since its establishment the Marine Corps Institute has received a total of 51,543 lesson papers. There being an average of four ten-inch sheets to the lesson, the papers received would, if placed end to end, reach eight miles.

Our policy always—Satisfaction or money back

If the world seems wrong,
And the whole day long
You grouch and fume and scowl,
If the work you do
Is a grief to you,
And you give the Corps a growl—

Just do your best
To try this test,
As others sometimes do;
Don't blame the Corps
Because you're sore,
Find out what's wrong with You!

Those Knocking Boosts

Who says every knock is a boost? Pick a good, intelligent Marine; start knocking him to all your buddies; make light of everything he does; laugh at his attempts to do his duty; give him the "razz"; keep the old hammer going day and night when his name is mentioned; and he's lucky if you don't boost him right into the brig.

Toot Your Horn

Doggone those hammer-throwing blokes! They ought to reap our scorn Until they lay off knocking folks And learn to toot a horn.

Where Military Training Helps

There are many occasions on the outside when a man may be guided largely by his military training. Here, for instance, are a few examples which show how a man will know how to do the right thing in an emergency:

- No. 1. When you pick up a bill-of-fare in a strange restaurant, "come quickly to the order."
- No. 2. When you're passing a flapper on the street, "incline to the right."
- No. 3. When you're looking for an address on a strange street, "do it by the numbers."
- No. 4. When you run into a bootlegger, "execute and about face."
- No. 5. When you retire in a strange room, be sure and "close your bolt."
- No. 6. Every student of architecture in the M. C. I. should be able to tell a contractor how to make a "column right."
- No. 7. When you work long hours watch your pay envelope for "double time."
- No. 8. When you go to bed in cold weather, "fall in quickly and cover up."

Old-timer says: "This outfit is nothing but one gol darn turn after another. At night you no sooner turn in and turn over, than you have to turn out and turn to."

Odd, Very Odd!

The Marine Corps sergeant, who originally hailed from Ireland, was signing up for another four-year hitch. As a married man he had to have special permission to reenlist.

The officer assured the Marine that in view of his excellent record all would be well. "By the way, sergeant," he asked, "have you any children?"

"Yes, sor," admitted the sergeant, nervously, "two sons and the both of thim's boys."

How an Editor Got Rich

When he started he was as poor as the proverbial church mouse twenty years ago. Now he has retired with a comfortable fortune of $50,000.

This money was acquired through industry, economy, conscientious effort to give full value, indomitable perseverance, and the death of an uncle, who left the editor $49,999.50.—Empeco Paper News.

She Was "Crazy" About Slim

"Funny how a guy makes up his mind to enlist," remarked Slim, the company clerk, to a bunch of his buddies in the bunkhouse.

"What made you decide to take the big plunge?" asked a buddy.

"It was this way," explained Slim. "I had a little squabble with the girl, and I told her I was going to join the Marines. Just to make it sound as if I meant business I wrote a letter to the nearest recruiting station, and before sealing the letter up I let her read it."

"Did she say anything?" asked the buddy.

"Not a word. So I went out and posted the letter. A little later I gets the answer back, saying I could enlist for two, three or four years, and I shows it to the girl. 'There you are,' says I, 'if you don't treat me different from now on, I'll go straight out and enlist for two years.'"

"Two years," says she. "Two years! Ah, don't be a piker, Slim, why don't you make it four?"

"Come to think of it," concluded Slim, "I don't think that jane was as bughouse about me as I calculated."

Barnyard Repartee

Said the barnyard sheep to the Jersey cow,

"We don't look well together.
My wool is soft as eider down,
And your hide's tough as leather."

Said the Jersey cow to the barnyard sheep,

"I don't know which I'd choose.
They use your wool for making clothes,
And they tan my hide for shoes."

Remarked in Passing

A Quantico Marine drank some gasoline by mistake, now instead of coughing he honks.

Whenever the Chinese Government cracks they use a lot of lead to fill the Chinks.

The worst thing about soldiering in the Chinese army is when a fellow gets captured he generally loses his head. You said it!

No doubt the American residents of China believe at the present moment, "A Marine in China is worth two in the Philippines."

The reason so many tall men marry short women is that the men all figure by the time they settle down they'll be just about the wife's size.

President Neilson of Smith College was making a rather tedious journey and was glad when the man who had the seat in front of his turned around and began a conversation. The man proved to be a traveling salesman and took it for granted that Dr. Neilson was another. "What's your line?" he asked. "Mine's skirts." "Well, so is mine," said the president of Smith.—New York Evening Post.

On the Trail of Casabianca

A volley rang out upon the air. Dave's comrades had come to the rescue. The two murderous Cacos who had tried to kill him with their machetes had been killed. Casabianca had sunk away.

Without heeding the warnings of his comrades, Devil Dog Dave pursued the baffled bandit. He knew that there was a reward for his capture, and Dave needed the money to pay his jawbone bill in Port au Prince.

On and on they plunged through the Haitian forest . . . the pursuer and the pursued. Dave could hear the crackle of the twigs as Casabianca tried to make his escape. He could hear the deep panting of the almost winded bandit who was sorely pressed.

As Dave burst through the thick tropical foliage into a clearing, there stood Casabianca at bay. Dave raised his rifle to shoot . . . he forgot it had jammed and was useless. Right behind the bandit was a sheer precipice. Five hundred feet below were the blue waters of the Caribbean.

For the first time Dave wished he was back in his old billet as storeroom keeper at League Island.

With a yell of triumph Casabianca sprang at Dave. . . . The Marine was too quick for him.

Plunging his bayonet into the overhanging branch of a tree, Dave gripped the stock—swung forward with his feet—caught the bandit under the jaw, and sent him hurtling over the precipice.

Unfortunately the momentum of his swing carried him too far forward. The bayonet worked loose. Dave swung through the air . . . went over the precipice . . . and began rapidly falling.

For a moment he thought he was lost.

A NOVEL EXPRESSION OF APPROVAL

One of the students in Geography recently expressed his opinion of the Marine Corps Institute in a novel way. In one of his lesson papers he was asked to locate and give the most important features of several cities, among others, Washington. He answered as follows:

"Washington is located in the District of Columbia and is the Capital of the United States and the headquarters of the Marine Corps Institute."

VALUING AN EDUCATION

"You people here in Massachusetts don't know what it is to struggle for an education," said a student in the correspondence division of the Massachusetts Department of Education. This student landed in America several years ago, a total stranger, with very little money, and with practically no knowledge of English. He was compelled to sleep in the open for some time while he was acquiring sufficient mastery of the English language to hold a job. He taught himself English, using difficult works on philosophy as text books. He has now mastered English and thanks to the extension courses offered in the state of Massachusetts has also acquired a knowledge of Spanish.

There can be no doubt that we do not appreciate a struggle for an education. Few of us have had to exert any appreciable effort to acquire such knowledge as we have and accordingly we are prone to under-value both an education itself and our opportunities for getting it. Through the public schools and the various correspondence courses education comes to us very easily. We do not feel that it is a luxury but rather that it is a common necessity provided by nature in much the same way as light and air.

There are sections of the United States where the reverse is true, where opportunities for education are very rare and where a man is considered well educated if he has had a total of two years of schooling.

There can be no man who, if he seriously considers the matter, does not rejoice that he is one of those for whom an education is a simple matter, yet the very ease with which it is acquired and the number of opportunities offered lessen our appreciation of the value of education and make us less active in taking advantage of our opportunities. This is obviously all wrong. It is the man in the well educated districts who should make the most of his chances. Where the standard is low it does not require much effort to arise above the average, and success is just that, but where every man has an equal opportunity to improve himself and the benefits of education are so generally distributed as to make its possession a matter of course, only the man who seizes upon every opportunity for advancement can hope to become a real success.

INCOME TAX AUDITORS STILL NEEDED

The United States Civil Service Commission states that although a number of examinations have been held, there is still need for eligibles to fill positions of auditor and inspector under the Income Tax Unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, for duty in Washington, D. C., and in the field.

Another examination for these positions will be held on June 14 throughout the United States. Entrance salaries range from $1,800 to $3,000 a year.

Besides qualifying in accounting experience and practical tests, applicants must pass an oral examination to determine their personal fitness for the work.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained by communicating with the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or with the secretary of the Civil Service Board at the postoffice or customhouse in any city.

The Marine Corps Institute offers a course which specially prepares the student for the positions mentioned above. This is the Auditor-Income-Tax-Unit Course given by the Civil Service section of the Business Schools of the Marine Corps Institute.

PRACTICAL WORK OF M. C. I. STUDENTS

THE LEATHERNECK is not only deriving an indirect advantage from the fact that every member of its staff is enrolled in a course in the Marine Corps Institute, but it is profiting directly from the work of the students and instructors.

When a new advertising contract reaches the office of the paper the services of the instructors and students in the advertising course is immediately requested. In this way THE LEATHERNECK receives the services of more or less expert copy writers and at the same time furnishes an opportunity to students to acquire practical experience.

The latest product of the skill of the institute advertising experts will be found on page three in the advertisement of the Marine Hymn. This ad. was written with the assistance of Sergeant W. F. Carpenter, Chief Instructor in the Advertising School, who has been of great assistance in arranging all of our advertising.

M. C. I. BASEBALL TEAM WINS OPENING GAME

The baseball team recently organized at the Marine Corps Institute, Marine Barracks, Washington, D. C., began its season Tuesday with a victory over the strong team of the Marines at the Washington Navy Yard.

The game was a pitchers' battle enlivened by some snappy fielding. Schmidt, a big left-hander, who is a student in the stenographer's school now being conducted by the Institute, had the Navy Yard batters completely at his mercy during the five innings during which he occupied the mound, only one bingle that looked like a hit being made off of his offerings. He retired the side on strikes in the first inning and struck out at least one man every inning thereafter. Breiley, who followed Schmidt, had almost as much, though he was in difficulty in the seventh inning through lack of control. In the last inning the Navy Yard hit the ball hard but two circus stops in the infield saved the day and Breiley struck out the third and last batter.

The M. C. I. team had just about as profitless a day at the bat. Both because it was their first game and because they were up against an unusually high-class brand of pitching, hits were few and far between. No run was scored until the sixth inning and both it and the subsequent run were the result of errors.

The editor of THE LEATHERNECK umpired and as usual succeeded in pleasing neither team. Both teams intimated in no very gentle terms at various stages of the game that the said umpire had need of the attentions of an oculist.

Paul A. Bazaar of Rochester, New York, has both hands and a portion of his forearm blown off through the explosion of a hand grenade during the war. This disability entitled him to vocational training, which he accepted, selecting as his objective, bookkeeping and accountancy. He has completed his course and is now employed by the Rochester office of the U. S. Veterans Bureau. Mr. Bazaar wears an artificial appliance that takes the place of the hand. He has not only learned over again the art of writing, but now writes better than many a person with unimpaired hands.

A total of approximately $580,000 yearly renewable term and Government (converted) insurance has been reinstated by former service men through the U. S. Veterans' Bureau since January 1, 1922, in the State of Washington alone. A total of approximately $83,000,000 yearly renewable term and Government (converted) insurance is being carried by ex-service men in that State, according to reports from that district.

The Letter that Saved Bob Johnson's Job

—and paved the way for a better one!

BOB answered the summons to the Chief's office with just a little fear and trembling, for a lot of men were being dropped—a lot more were having their pay reduced.

But as Bob came in, his employer did a suprising thing. He got up quickly from his desk and grasped Bob warmly by the hand.

"I have just received a letter from the International Correspondence Schools telling me that 'Robert Johnson of your office has enrolled for a course of home study and has received a mark of 94 for his first lesson.'

"I want to congratulate you, young man, on your industry and good judgment. I am glad to see that you are training yourself not only for your present job but for the job ahead.

"We're cutting the pay-roll. Until I received this letter, I had you in mind as one of the men to be dropped. But not now. Keep on studying—keep your eyes open—and pretty soon there'll be a still better job for you around here. We're always looking for trained men."

WON'T you yet the I. C. S. help you, too? Won't you trade a few hours of your spare time for a good job, a good salary, and the comforts that go with it?

It takes but a moment to mark the career of your choice, sign your name, clip out and mail the coupon printed on the right. Yet that simple act has started more than two million men and women toward success.

In city, town, and country all over the world, men are living contented lives in happy, prosperous homes—because they clipped this coupon.

In every line of business and industry; in shops, stores, offices, factories, in mines and on railroads, men are holding important positions and receiving splendid salaries—because they clipped this coupon.

Clerks have become sales, advertising, and business managers; mechanics have become foremen, superintendents, and engineers; carpenters have become architects and contractors; men and boys have risen from nothing to places of responsibility—because they clipped this coupon.

You have seen it in almost every magazine you have looked at for years. And while you have been passing it by more than ten thousand men and women each month have been making it the first stepping-stone to real success in life.

Will you still turn away from Opportunity? Can you still go on, putting in your days at the same grind, getting the same pay envelope with the same insufficient sum, when such a little thing can be the means of changing your whole life?

You can have the position you want in the work you like best, a salary that will give you and your family the home, the comforts, the little luxuries you would like them to have. No matter what your age, your education, or your means—you can do it.

All we ask is the chance to prove it. Just mark and mail the coupon, and, without obligation or a penny of cost, let us tell you what the I. C. S. can do for you. It's a little thing that takes but a moment, but it's the most important thing you can do today. Do it now!

Do You Know

That Boston University is going to turn out head waiters and "bell hops" in a six weeks' course by the vocational department of the College of Business?

That paper pulp and strawboard are now made from oat hulls?

That a German aeronautical experimenter, on a motorless soaring machine with hawk-like wings, rose from an absolute standstill to an altitude of 200 feet without assistance, and flew for 21 minutes and 37 seconds? He landed at a point only 40 feet lower than his starting point.

That fifty per cent more money was spent by the people of the United States for perfumes, face powder and cosmetics in 1920, than the total endowment of all the private colleges and universities in the country, according to Treasury Department statistics?

That the United States consumed 10,548,451,000 pounds of sugar in 1921? This represents 28.4 per cent of world production.

That the first daily newspaper in the United States to publish the Bible in serial form is the Topeka State Journal? The four gospels are to be published in weekly installments of approximately 3,000 words. The Weymouth text of the New Testament will be used throughout.

That Mayor Oles, of Youngstown, Ohio, has donated his salary to the Community Corporation to be used in purchasing food for the needy? Each salary check has been turned over to the poor as soon as he could indorse it.

That a revision of the compulsory labor law in Bulgaria provides that exemption from the labor law may be purchased by not more than 20 per cent of the subjects liable for service? The income derived from the sale of exemptions is retained by the municipal governments for the developments of public works.

TOM THUMB, THE STUDE STENOGR

Dearest Member of the Feminine Sex:

Since last I addressed an epistle to you I have not only mastered, thanks to competent instruction, the mechanical manipulation of the typewriter, but have likewise increased the agility of my cerebral tissues a hundredfold. A desire to avoid any appearance of self-laudation prevents me from placing myself in the category of the erudite but I may say that my progress both in manual dexterity and lingual proficiency is remarkable. My studies call me else would I indite many a line replete with flowery verbiage and indicative of the superlative degree to which my regard for you arises.

Three disabled veterans, vocational students of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, in the School of Pharmacy of the University of Pittsburgh, completed their courses and now hold positions as pharmaceutical chemists at salaries ranging from $200 to $250 per month.
